on non defense map with more then 20 players try not to becon when the enemy has one or more destroyed buildings. they will mostly be forced to defend the base because you are stronger and when you place a becon they will disarm it in a moment. this will give them so many points over and over again that you will lose. happend to me yesterday night because those n00bs won't stop using becons while the half of our team was telling them to stop. try placing a becon on a non defense map with 40 players and you will be surprised how quik the engie's will show up. and then for every engie you kill 2 extra will come to help
