You could cut the cost by making it an officer. Rapid rate of fire for just about 1/10th the cost of a Mendoza. Even better is to coordinate one rush with another. Do a flame tank rush, but let someone with a beacon ride with one of the tanks. The planter, hops out as the flamers close in on the power plant and plants at the barracks. You'd have to wait the extra 200 to get a beacon before rushing, but it might be slightly faster, though not by much.
