While I don't condone putting proxy mines on any vehicle for ANY reason, I think conservative useage of REMOTE c4 on rush vehicles (preferable buggy or humvee) can be legitamate. It only takes two, which is not a huge drain on the base defenses, and it WILL prevent the vehicle from ending up in enemey hands...provided you live long enough to detonate your remote c4. This works especially well on the fools who just steal the vehicle sitting behind their power plant instead of investigating. As soon as your c4 blows the plant, their ride is demolished. A rude awakening for sure.
