Go outside on the deck of the ship. There should be two sets of stairs on each side of the building at the front of the ship. The set that brings you the highest(to the bridge) should have the captain on it(or one of the first mates). Whoever it is will give you the card when you kill him. By the way, I'm not positive about this part, but I think you gain access to the deck when you find the Tiberium room with the Visceroid guarding it. The stairs leading to the outside are connected to that room, with the vats of Tiberium in it. I couldn't stand this mission because of it's cramped quarters and repetitive action. It takes WAY too long to find and do anything on that board and it frustrated me a lot too. Don't worry tho', they do get better and more interesting.
