Well... I can I say. I'm also the HotWire/ Technician in ma team but my place is outhere in the trenches. Repairing damaged tanks, disable c4 and mines, deploying c4's in "kamikaze like" attacks on enemy tanks (or if I'm lucky on enemy camo troops or infantears) and so on. Such engees are tank's drivers worst nightmare because ... you see him runing toward your vehicle with his bomb and U can't take him out fast enough. The splash damage of the remote c4 is considerable! If you use your imagination and trying to be unpredictable while playing a Hotwire character , you can develop a really offensive style. Still ussually you get people screaming: "Get your ass here, pronto!" and "Where is the * engie !?", "Go to the base!" and of course "Assist me!!"
