Once I was in a game in the map under. I mined the tunnel with about 6 mines and A few around critical points even if any Nod make through the tunnel it will still kill them. There is one other person who starts to put mine in front of the AGT. I told him to stop and say that he will ruin my setup of mines. i said that he would worry about flame rush not the tunnel. Only one flame tank manage to reach his mines while about 10 guys got blown up in the tunnel. You definely have to watch the tunnel especily if you are GDI and on a map without base defence. I have at least 20 successful stealth nuke run that effectively change the game. On wall or mesa I often sneak in to the GDI base using the main entrance as most people cannot be bothered mining the main entrance.
