I just played on city and kicked some Nod a$$$. I took down 2 buildings all by myself(although I don't like being a lone wolf). I got about 2000 points when the whole team got about 9000(I would have got more but I got disconnected. Don't know if I was MVP, probably was). Become a sydney(with PIC)/gunner and run for those buildings. If you want to you can sit there taking out the harvy but it's a waste of time. Get yourself into the buildings closest to the Nod base(this is easiest when there is a GDI rush on-everyone is in the base defending-or if you can get a friend to snipe the people down that's good too.) Move to the gap so you can see the base(not too close or the OBy will get you). You can either stand their pounding on it(good if others do this also)or you can wait untill it fires at something else(again, if there is a rush on)and rush for it. I manage to slip in unnoticed. Place your timed c4 on the MCT and back away to that corner by the door(this minimalises your damage from it and also stops people shooting through the door at you.). Then stand there shooting at the MCT untill it is bye bye Oby. By now you should be out of ammo so should run back to your base. When I did this in the game I just played I managed to stand too close to the MCT so I died and then respawned hearing "Nod Obelisk destroyed". That was such a lovely feeling. Talk about an adrenaline rush!! I did this again but this time I stood in the upper holes and one by one took out the Nod turrets. Now I had made the base vunerable to any half decent rush. I then rushed in to the Air strip and placed my c4 and stood there shooting at the MCT. It happened again but this time I was killed by Nod soldiers and some c4 planted on my face.By now in the game all that was left of the base was the refinery. I got disconnected when I was going in with my medium tank, it got destroyed and I was just running into the refinery when I disconnected. I was so angry! I could have got a near perfect game! Destroying everything but the Hand of Nod.
