I have tested being on both the giving and the receiving end of anti-aircraft fire. I can say that if you are in a chopper, and a ravenshaw/havoc fires at you, your only chance to survive is to kill them. If you flee they WILL take you down, as they can hit you even when you are far away. Your best bet is to retreat backwards while firing at them, and hope you make them dodge enough to not fire at you.
