i've been using this for a few weeks(ever since i discovered his awesome power against building on accident.) i especially love using this guy early because with the lack of vehicles no other unit can chase you through the tiberium feilds. on maps like volcano, hug the wall and travel under the bridge, 99\% of the time you'll get into the base completly unnoticed. you can also sit and take down buildings on some levels. on under (the accidental thing comes into play here) you can sit at the back entrance near the power plant and if no one repairs it you can take it out from inside the comfort of the tunnel. to be less noticable i found crouching while doing this makes you less noticable (not sure how though but it does.)
