If a tank is trying to run me over...I run backwards (so to keep them in view), and strafe LEFT...they think im trying to circle and they adjust their heading to head me off and squish me...I keep strafing LEFT, and then at the last moment I strafe RIGHT. Now I am next to the tank and its pretty easy to avoid it. I keep firing the entire time too, and usually once their health is in the red they give up and drive away, at which time my planted timed C4 goes off and finishes them off.
