I do believe that aircraft will balance this out a little, at least on those maps with aircraft. Since it is almost always going to be out of range of a FT, and can see one coming from much farther off, it might take a little of the bite from them (unless of course, you're picked out of the sky in seconds by a ramjet rifle, as the beta testers seem to point out again and again.....there are going to be a lot more Havocs and Sakura's out there)
