I think the best way to finding stealth soldiers and stealth tanks would be for them to put the sound they should make unstealing in! You`d know where its coming from when you`d hear it, and could find them, or at least know their there. They have an enormous advantage, and most know how to use it. So I say we implement a sound for when they uncloak. The original one from TD would suffice. I really wish they would have made it though! To only see it and not hear it is nearly not as scary!Peace
