You need to spread them out. I should have mentioned that so in effect you are actually planting them in front of the AGT's MCT to begin with. The area of that room is actually a good size area to mine in front of all the MCT's. Mining doorways to prevent beacons is useless because then somebody will just plant the beacon outside the building and your mines will have proved useless. There is no way you can mine the entire outside of a building. Besides, I would much rather let them plant the beacon and then disarm it so I get 300 points....so I'd rather kill them after they plant.
