reminds me of a time a freind and i were on yahoo chats. some guy got on there and started screwing with him. at the same time his firewall program started telling him someone was trying to hack him. he then typed on the board hackers suck and the guy that was screwing with him said no they don't. he then told the guy to stop hacking him b/c he has the hackers isp. the hacker said no you don't then my freind put the isp on the chat board. the hacker left very shotly after that.
