If you find a good team (rare), all working together taking orders. It is lots of fun guarding the base and doing repairs, I often buy a cheap buggy to make my way around the bigger bases, hopping out to refill and place mines, and patrolling the base. Another little trick is after a techy manages to damage a building with c4, after he dies, he will come back especially if you don't fully repair the building making it look like it was when he left, you place tons of mines in it and wait, I'll sit in my buggy and make him run the guntlet into a wounded building trap. But you do always have to be on your toes.
