
Subject: Most Embarrassing Tactics

Posted by Anonymous on Fri, 29 Mar 2002 00:32:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Not an embarrassing moment for me, but someone out there should be feeling red about it. Last night playing on Monohan (server) in the volcano map. I bought an Sydney and yuri (don't recall the numbers after his name) was a regular gdi soldier. Both went to nod power plant, planted our allotted 1 timed c-4 each on the mct. And guess what, we BOTH stayed to defend our work. Multiple noddies came in to investigate and we took them out in between yuri and I lighting up the mct with tib rifle and reg rifle (2 timed c-4's ain't enough to take out one mct). After that I had enough to go back buy a hummer and a hotwire. Go directly to airstrip, lay my remote det c-4, place prox mines around inside of door when I notice - my hummer's being stolen by a nod troop - unfortunately he didn't think to check why the vehicle was there as I hadn't placed my prox mines yet. Needless to say I cared less about the vehicle and continued on. Detted the remote c-4, placed my timed c-4, capped my m8 twice (we can never get on the same side) and typed to all, "I'm in your airstrip - WHHEEEEE!!!" After which it promptly blew up and everyone was kicked due to server shutdown. Anyway - thanks for the awesome teamwork yuri___ doesn't happen everyday.
