LOL....I've done that too! That's why it's always a great idea to let a stealth black hand in your apc engi/tech rush! It's so fun to see the panicked engines fall to the invisible man!! I think I racked up 14 kills once doing this (it's also a guilty pleasure to kill off respawning people in the building...I know it's cheap, but it's ooh so fun!) Part of the reason this works so well is because some engines get so flustered when they rush in to fix the mct...if you stand really still, you'll often go unnoticed...it's like they look for movement out of the corner of their eye....
