First a question, then a comment. First of all why repair at the MCT? Does the building repair faster if you're there? I know one benefit is that that's where the C4 will usually be. Second, if people can't drive, they should definitely still try. They never get good without trying. I mean, I got my girlfriend on the game and within a couple of games I had even her taking down at least 2 vehicles to her one. And she's never played a FPS before. (She usually just plays the sims.) If that's not enough of a point, I don't know what is.
