Yes, fortunatly only one time has someone tried to take mine, and he got out when I told em to. I think at the least that you should be the only person who can get into a vehicle you buy until you get in it. That way people can't just sit at the airfield and stuff to take your tank. And theres nothing better than the satisfying boink sound you get from a Black Hand sneaking behind a Mammoth, taking it over, and running over the former owner.
