I must say the thing I hate the most, must be people stealing your tank. I have tried it quite a few times when no-one wants to repair your tank and you jump out to repair it yourself. Then someone jumps in your tank and keeps calling that someone should repair the tank. And then drives into the sunset not caring about just wanting him to get out. So now I never get out when others are close by the temptation seems to be too big for most people.
