As I said, you get run over, and they'll notice that you threw C4 on them. I have turret view lock on my tanks and I always take a look around my tank by spinning the barrel slowly to see if there are any C4 charges on it (If any infantry were uncomfortably close). If there are, I drive back to base and wait until it explodes (I repair the tank while I wait for the C4 to detonate) and repair it afterwards. Then I drive back out and continue onwards.
