I've found X, diamond, and pentagon patterns work best for mines, depending on your need for them. Esp. in the power plant - for example, stick six at each entrance in City, six in the rear of the weaps, and six in the rear of the ref and you're covered - unless your enemy is brave and goes after the AGT - but this placement hasn't failed me yet. Six at each entrance in City dissuades a raiding party long enough to get there before any damage is done - most of the time.
