Hmm thats is a big problem you have. Extracting the lsd will only give you the main terrain so you will have to re do the presets. I take it you have a preset thats missing on your map causing it to not load. You can delete the presets database file (rename it) then load your map into leveledit and it will tell you whats missing, depending on how many things you added this could take a long time. But other than that i can't think of anything. Leveledit doesn't backup the files like gmax can.
