Why wouldn't they? I implemented them in Glacier Flying for a purpose - when your team mates become moronic and decide not to repair your vehicle, or if they're preoccupied with something else, or if you're under total attack; sitting on the Repair Facility is the best thing to do. Your vehicle is repaired free of charge, no one can steal it, your enemy won't steal it because you're still in it, and you're able to attack with your main cannon while sitting on it. It's the perfect structure to add to a map. I've made it a case in point to keep them in every map of mine.
