My only complaint with some of the beta maps is that some are clearly not finished and buggy. Now, obviously the purpose of a beta is to find bugs but in some "betas" the map maker already knew of the bugs and chose not to fix them for the sake of releasing the beta a little bit earlier. Dumb. The purpose of a beta is to find any bugs that you as a developer can't find and to judge the playability of the map. A beta map should be as close to the final product as possible. Yes I know this is my opinion but it happens to be right.
