Over half of the middle schoolers (seventh-eighth grade) at my school wear these, thought it's slightly dialed down a bit. (Most naive and prude private school in existance.) Here they're known as "kiss-me" bracelets, and are fashioned from the plastic seals found on the inside of most 20 oz. soda bottle tops.

Whee, I'm a freshman now, the world of middle school is gone forever. Damn.

Meh...I don't support this sort of thing, you shouldn't need a bracelet to show you're ready to have sex.

Yes, 10 year olds wearing these is a bad thing.
