Awww come on, don't be so hard on ACK. He's barely literate, and he needs everyone to type things out PERFECTLY in order to understand them. His little "correction" was probably just a way to vent his frustration from wasting half an hour of his pitifully boring life trying to figure out what you were saying.

I propose we all give ACK a big CONGRATULATIONS for finally figuring out how to discern an unknown word from context clues. Most of us probably learned that stuff back when we were only 6 or 7, but we shouldn't forget that some people have difficulty with seemingly simple tasks.
