yes, the money he owed was $573.50 i am also a big Stargate fan, infact, the original movie is on tonight here.

and that episode was called 1969. And here explanation was to do with the space-time continuum, and how the gravity and the intense enegy that was relased send them back in time. they ended up in the gate room, so it looked exacally the same, because time was comming through the gate, and then once the gate was turned off, the room turned into the old missile silo that the gate room is based in. so while the gate was open, they wre back at the SGC, and when it closed they were at the butt end of a titan rocket about to have a test burn...

but yeah, i dunno about time travle, infact, i read in the paper on the train on the way home today, that after like 20 years, Steven Hawkings pulled out on his bet, he said that black holes did not leave any remains of anyhting they swallowed up. but he proved himself wrong this afternoon, in ireland at soem science thingy.
