AircraftkillerSEAL, I find "a*k" offensive because of the way it gets used quite often. "a*k a*k im coughing something up oh its just him again," etc... I have a nickname for a reason, and if you type "a*k" it just auto-completes it for you.
Hey GrammarNazi, you're wrong again. It's NOT auto-complete. It's auto-correct. Except it's correcting something which isn't even wrong. And as you pointed out, it has many other meanings, so it's a bit presumptuous of you to assume that every time someone says "ac'k" they're referring to you.
