Subject: Alternative To winrem.exe
Posted by Nightma12 on Sat, 24 Jul 2004 07:55:30 GMT

Danteand why couldn't renrem.exe be executed in the same manner? hell, it even outputs a file.

because once it is sent to the FDS, you have to wait a few seconds for renrem to close, and in that time you cant send another message, also, you have to put the message in the -r"", now although i have not tested it, so this may be 100% wrong but what if the message you was sending to the FDS had a " in it? it wouldnt get though would it?

Quote:is there a documentation for fdstalk.dll somewhere?

do you mean FDSTalk.exe?