so if my house is bombed tomorrow...or some guy breaks into my house while I'm asleep and kills me...that means I dont have the survival skills necessary? being KIA doesn't have anything to do with how bad you are...all the people that died on D-Day...were they just not skilled enough to make it? Did they all suck?

by you're logic...we still shouldn't be in Iraq because if they cant save themselves...why should we help them?
