I've got a Tippman 98C, myself. Pretty much everything on it is stock, except for the 16oz tank. I haven't invested too much money into it for the simple fact that the arenas around here suck.

I would like to, however, get the C7 custom kit. Turn that puny little PoS into a paintball semi/automatic rifle. It needs work though.

My greatest annoyance with paintballing is the tanks. I've always been rather aggressive with them, and have broken value after value after value just diving for cover. It's not the adapter, its just a poorly placed concept.

To aid that, I want to get one of those belts with a CO2 line connecting the tank to the gun that goes around the body.
