Aircraftkillermripirate If people want to use drugs like weed, they can go ahead. You only get one life, so you may as well experience as much as you can, I suppose. What I do disagree with, though, is thinking you're cool for it. "LOLOL 420 WEED SKINZ!!111" = No.

I guess we should go out and kill things, since we may as well experience as much as we can.

Sure, that's dramatizing it, but it's still the mentality you're going to breed. Morality has been the cornerstone of civilization, when you start breaking down fundamental barriers to insane actions, it becomes "normal" to do what was once detrimental to an organized society.

Speak for yourself, I happen to be anti-war.

Seriously, though, doing drugs doesn't really hurt anybody but the user. If they want to try doing drugs, there's no reason not to. I also refuse to believe that people smoking weed is morally corrupting society.
