SEALTo Nodbugger:

You think other presidents don't get equal attention to things like this!? If someone ELSE were in office, and they said the same thing, trust me, you WOULD hear about it. See there are these people that pay close attention to what the president says. Oh yes! I remember know, they are called "RE-PORT-ERS"!

To Crimson:

Clinton lied. What's the relevance?

This is different.

Before the 2000 election people were generally satisfied with who ever became president. They did not protest because they did not like the outcome. They did not bitch and moan about it during the entire presidency. They did not protest every move that president made no matter how right he was, they did it because they have a grudge.

People are still pissed off Bush won the election and for some reason it is their goal to make his presidency a living hell.

And those people are idiots.
