Subject: GASP An unbiased opinion!

Posted by _ToXiN_ on Sun, 15 Aug 2004 20:20:08 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

hydra1945What's the point of making a great script to improve the game and then not even distribute it so other people can build upon it and do even greater things with it? All that hard work of Silent_Kane's will have been in vain. What use would he have to keep it for himself if the object is to improve it for everyone?

Word*

*and since people don't like one word posts, I'll add that I humbly agree with Hydra while usually my opinions clash with his like two speeding trains on the same track.

To be honest it seems kind of like, if a Great book writer, wrote a great book, and then said no one can read it because they'll get inspiried by it and write Fan Fictions, why did he write the book in the first place then.

Oh and also I'm an Open-source-everything-free--build-on-it Linux fanboy so you can't blame me for having a romantisized view of things.