Subject: Question.
Posted by [HLOW]Tomten on Tue, 17 Aug 2004 08:29:23 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

macMaybe combine it with the release of CP1 (= release of brenbot 1.36), which is only a few weeks away (beta testing coming soon). Using CP1 on a server has many advantages for the user - mainly working sounds in multiplayer, like hearing the obelisk glowing up, and hearing custom CP1 sounds made by djlaptop for various ingame actions by brenbot.

And - new maps that everyone that RenGuard has. That means 4 new All War Out Maps that can run in any standard renegade maprotation.

If the server in question enforces RenGuard, that means that everyone using it will have CP1, which means that everyone using it has the new maps and engine features.

Maybe someone can be appointed for USA WOL and EURO WOL and GSA - design a website where interested server owners can get information, and sign in, so people see what server owners will switch.

Just my thoughts. Post if you're interested. I can help wherever I can.

I think this is an excellent idé.