Yeah, but why would you join a forum and start arguing from day one? that's really the way to go dude.. and it's not like you can't idle in less channels to appear less suspicious. personally, I'd stay out of mlRC altogether.

In any case, there always comes a time where people realise they're not wanted and leave of their own accord. same applies to people smurfing on different names. it's never the same as just being yourself.

edit:

Quote:Well Scamp, you asked me last week which was the best network to be a part of.

i'm not about to go into the detective side of things but if this guy IMed you then he must know you somehow. so where on the www did you meet scamp?
