Umbral_DelaFlareTake a look at the mirror on the left.

There's something incredibly uncomfortable about those woods...great pictures, though.

I don't think that's a mirror, looks more like a painting to me, but that house it is in seems to be inverted maybe five times.

Yes, I also recommend printing a couple of those pictures with the silhouette in it and showing them to the police, tarsonis.

Now, my rationale for why this camera has the pics that it does is some kids were out making reference shots for a horror movie, reminiscent of the Blare Witch Project.

However, I still think you should go to the police and tell them what you found, I bet those kids are probably aching to have their camera back. It was a lucky find, but something that expensive I think should be handed back.
