I agree Java, totally. I don't blame BC for having me banned after that. I'm not justifying my actions, just saying that I will do something if provoked.

This is why your argument on "well you cheated before, so we don't know if you will again" doesn't hold water, msgtpain.

If I wanted to cheat, I have admitted that I would do it in a very obvious way. Like killing everyone in the server, from inside a structure, over and over. Destroying everything in the gameplay. I don't need cheats to bolster my ability to play the game. I'm quite happy with how I play, even if I fuck up and don't play well sometimes. I've always been honest about the cheating issue, and if I do cheat I will tell you when and where I have done it. There is absolutely no grounds for the "you did it before, you will probably do it again" accusations. For all I know, you could be cheating in your server... Just because you say that you don't doesn't make me wrong, but that's irrelevant because there is no factual proof that you cheat or not.

I also do not distribute cheats, so don't imply that. Nothing I have made that can ruin the game for others has been released to the public, or to friends. I keep my little gadgets to myself.