God! some of you guys should get out more.....why would someone bother to take the pictures, photoshop them, and put them back in the camera and leave it in the woods for someone to find...

with the risk of it: a) Not being found at all, b) being found by someone who couldn't give a shite what was on it and just happy they got a free digital camera or c) in being destroyed by rain....all in an attempt to hoax some boring blair witch style crap. What a waste of a digital camera!

It is either - the guy who "found the camera" has gone out to the wood taking some "interesting" photos (either getting a mate to pose or photoshopping them) and posting them on this board to entertain you suckers....

Or he really did find a camera that some poor unfortunate art student lost in the woods.

Get a life
