MistressGod! some of you guys should get out more.....why would someone bother to take the pictures, photoshop them, and put them back in the camera and leave it in the woods for someone to find...

God! some people need to learn how to read... It is already known that it's a great hoax, that is at the moment going around every forum there is out there.

MistressIt is either - the guy who "found the camera" has gone out to the wood taking some "interesting" photos (either getting a mate to pose or photoshopping them) and posting them on this board to entertain you suckers....

Or he really did find a camera that some poor unfortunate art student lost in the woods.

It's neither, the guy who found it, just copied it from a different forum. Although it's almost certain that the first finder, was the guy who edited the picture.

Get educated.
