

---

Subject: >> VOTE FOR A MODERATOR

Posted by Scrumfy on Fri, 27 Aug 2004 22:04:07 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

CrimsonScrumfyCrimsonIf they don't participate in these forums, then why should they give a shit who moderates them?

They read them, and they're tired of the ineffective moderation that leads to all of the Reborn SUX and such being allowed to stay. They're a part of the ren community as much as you are.

So am I, that's why I'm having this vote. But you should be ashamed that your underlings are trying to cheat the system. You should denounce these idiots.

I will, if I find out that it was in fact intentional. Even from months ago, people were having problems registering (and not getting an activation e-mail). I can't be sure if it was a mistake or not...yet.

On a side note, isn't one IP only allowed one vote? Is UBB different or something?

warrantoQuestion: If you haven't participated in this forum before today, why should your vote count for something? I would bet the only reason Scrumfy has the sheer number of votes he does is because people came over from another forum, who have no interest whatsoever in this one, simply to vote for him. I don't accuse scrumfy of anything here, nor intend to suggest he should be punished for it. But I mean give me a break. It's petty.

The reasons are stated above...But I'll reiterate. Reading these forums does not require membership, and as such, many of our forumgoers also read posts here. We keep up to date on the conversion mods and server- and client-side fixes/modifications. They have an opinion, I'm not just senselessly spamming a link here and asking for votes. They know the situation, and they can finally do something about all of the hostility and bashing...I'm sure they'd say so themselves but most don't seem to be big fans of some certain people here anyway. I don't think it's petty; I do, however, think it's petty to assume that just because someone decides to register to vote for this poll, that they have no idea what has been happening here. Quite the contrary, actually...

---