

---

Subject: 9/11: The Pantagon...

Posted by bigejoe14 on Sun, 05 Sep 2004 17:45:25 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

In addition to the jet fuel thing, planes are made out of titanium. Titanium metal burns with an intense heat and an intense bright white color. It will burn until nothing is left and it is almost impossible to put out the fire by conventional means. So not only could the plane have vaporized upon impact, but the bruning wreckage can contribute to the fact that there was hardly anything left of the plane after the fires were put out.

---