RiftgardeGood idea to vote for the man that members of his own party support the man running against him.

To say "I'm going to vote for Bush/Kerry because he's a republican/democrat" is not usually a good reason. It's incredibly stupid to assume that all democrats vote democratic and all republicans vote republican, so by your logic we could say the EXACT same thing to you:

Good idea to vote for the man that members of his own party support the man running against him.

You're guilty of supporting someone who fits that description no matter who you support.

:rolleyes:
