This model will not be used for anything so I wasn't really following a poly count, i will give you one next time I look but I have not checked it yet so it could be pretty high, so i chave not gone to any trouble of minimizing it either.

I did this model over two days the head one day and the body the next. In total it wouldnt have been over 1 and a half hours.

When I say steam-punk I mean old technology styles mixed with some futuristic looks.

Cheers for replies, I will take all helpful replies into consideration.
