why is it that whenever somebody asks what is going on with something, like how come a model hasn't been approved, a patch isn't out yet etc.. people have to come in and say "omg dont ask be patient they volunteer to do this stuff so show some appreciation" ffs, when was it wrong to ask about something? it's not like we're saying "you guys suck, you said X would be out in Y days, now it's Y days and it still isn't out, omfg".

all that aside, if you say something will be out in X days then when it comes to X nothing comes out, you can't expect people not to say anything (when they've been eagerly anticipating it anyway).
