C4minerPfft... greedy :rolleyes: If they didn't charge monthly they would eventually start racking up debt... The fees will pay for servers with capacities of 3000+ simultaneous players, continual patches and updates with new features and bug fixes, security from cheaters and hackers, and a full-time dev team working on the game even after release. This needs to be paid for somehow, and monthly fees are the way to go.

Generally, pay-to-play games offer a much deeper experience than a "free" game would.

Well said, I agree.
