hydra1945What have you got to lose? I'd rather live my life believing in something rather than nothing. What if the Christians are right, and there really is a Heaven and a Hell, and Jesus really was the Son of God and died for all the reasons he said he did? I'd say you're pretty much screwed when you get to the gates of Heaven and God says "I made you, yet you didn't believe in me, and now you want into paradise? I'm sorry, but go to Hell (literally)."

Exactly. PERHAPS my religion is all a joke (of course I highly doubt that). What have I lost by believing in something? Wouldn't it be more comforting to think that there is more to your life than just the physical part? I mean, I'd much rather believe that I could be rewarded for my actions rather than believing that my life came from an explosion and after I die I go into the ground and cease to exist at all. That right there should get you to at least explore religion.
