China is a very self-centred country and it is using race, nationalism and foreign imperialism to unify the views within the country. This created several views in China. 1. Most treaties signed in the late 1800's do not count as the part of land was offered to other countries compensate for war cost. This includes Taiwan and part of Hong Kong. 2. China is the most powerful country in the world and any insult to it will be crushed without resistance. 3. Other country all want a piece of China or invade other countries to expand their territory. 4. China has nothing to do with terrorism, it does not get involve with sabating other country or have terrorism that belongs to the Han people(the largest race in China).

As you can see that General has insulted China by blowing up Tiananmen square, so some people are not happy about it. If it is a good game where they get blow up USA it probably won't matter too much. :rolleyes:
