I re-installed it a few days back, as you saw from my post.

I had to ask somebody with a successful english CP1 installation to send me the always.dbs over MSN so I would have full cp1.

Maybe, instead of the CP1 installation process, it doesn't install the always.dbs for the one it automatically selects for you. Instead, what is a good idea, is making it so, the user selects their language from the list, which tells the installer to use that specific always.dbs and not the one it wants to select automatically...

can this be done for CP1 the release?
